Athena

Goddess of Wisdom & Strategy

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

Goddess Athena was known for her superb logic and intellect, her decisions were well-considered and displayed great compassion.

She uses her wisdom to out smart people and make very wise decisions.

Another power/talent that she has is crafts. She a very good weaver and very talented.

Her war skills when she absolutely needs to but she tries to remain peaceful and tries to create peace not war.

How can my decisions be wiser?

How can I apply peace instead of war?

Hathor

Goddess of fertility, pleasure & joy

EGYPTIAN MYTHOLOGY

Hathor's character centered around femininity.

She had power over women's issues such as fertility, beauty, childbirth, and love.

She was a goddess of destruction but she went from the goddess of destruction to that of love and happiness after she drank too much beer and turned her back on the killing fields.

Among others, she was celebrated as the Mistress of Life.

How can I celebrate my life?

How can I embrace my femininity?

Medusa

Goddess of menstrual power
and hence female power

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

Medusa, the most beautiful and only mortal Gorgon sister, is a sea spirit.

Coral is allegedly Medusa's blood, which spilled into the sea and was petrified.

Other legends suggest that Medusa is a Libyan snake goddess.

There is an ancient metaphysical belief that menstrual blood is the single most spiritually and magically powerful substance on Earth. It can be used to destroy or overwhelm any other power.

How can I see my allegedly curse as my superpower?

How can I see beauty in the ugly?
